

Exhibits Technician (Summer Position) 2021

Cole Harbour Heritage Farm Museum, Cole Harbour, Nova Scotia

The Museum

The Cole Harbour Heritage Farm Museum is an original Cole Harbour farm, cultivated continuously for over 200 years. It has operated as a community museum since 1978 and is owned and operated by the Cole Harbour Rural Heritage Society (CHRHS). The museum site is a rural oasis tucked into the middle of a now bustling urban centre. The main museum site consists of 12 buildings. Of those, two are historic houses, six are historic barns and outbuildings and the remainder are museum support structures. This "open air" museum also includes gardens, pastureland, pathways and a small wetland and natural reserve. In addition to the heritage buildings, the museum collection consists of approximately 4000 artifacts representing the evolution of agriculture in the area, along with the implements and personal items of the peoples who made Cole Harbour home. A small representation of traditional farm animals is kept on site along with heritage gardens and native species of trees and shrubs, creating our living collection. The site contains a busy tearoom and gift shop within the original farmhouse, a working blacksmith shop and is a cultural and social hub for the community of Cole Harbour. The Museum operates on a free will donation basis, welcoming over 20,000 visitors per year.

The Position

The Exhibits Technician will work closely with the Collections Manager to develop displays for two newly created exhibit spaces in the Farm's 150-year-old Settle Barn. This will involve creating a plan for these new spaces, and putting together displays using artifacts and interpretation panels. The chosen candidate will gain experience in exhibit planning; researching, designing, and writing interpretive panels; artifact handling and care; and the installation of exhibit displays. Additionally, the Farm Museum will be evaluated by the Association of Nova Scotia Museums in July 2021. Therefore, the candidate will also experience an evaluation cycle of a museum, and will be a key part of the museum's preparation efforts.

Reporting to the Director and working closely with the Collections Manager and Interpretation Committee, the duties of the Exhibits Technician will include:

- Perform an exhibits assessment of all buildings and exhibit areas to ensure readiness for the 2021 visitor season, i.e. polishing glass, dusting, sweeping, vacuuming and general refreshing as required. Beyond its maintenance function, this task is included to familiarize the Exhibits Technician with all of the Farm exhibits.
- Assist in daily opening and closing procedures, building security checks and exhibit maintenance.
- Learn to recognize and identify key elements of creating exhibits within heritage buildings: protection and enhancement of character defining elements and features, compatibility of design, signage, hardware.
- Assist in installing new displays, including elements of exhibit construction; preparing staging where required, mounts for display items, panel attachments and security features.
